MAINTENANCE

Routine maintenance is suggested to be performed yearly by the end user; including inspection of loose fasteners, touch up of coating damage and re-application of paint to white oak slats. Commercial grade fasteners with anti-theft mechanisms when possible are utilized to maintain the integrity of the assembly and prevent vandalism.

Powder coated surfaces should only be power washed or wiped down with mild soap solutions. Scratches, scuffs and chips of powder coat should be cleaned of debris and rust then primed and painted. As with all coatings on a natural wood product, painted wood slats will require maintenance. The amount of pedestrian use, exposure to weather and selected coating will dictate the maintenance schedule. The end user shall take the responsibility of re-applying paint products when required.
